Description:

From the New York Times bestselling author of NOS4A2 and Horns comes this award-winning collection of short fiction. Imogene is young, beautiful . . . and dead, waiting in the Rosebud Theater one afternoon in 1945. . . .Francis was human once, but now hes an eight-foot-tall locust, and everyone in Calliphora will tremble when they hear him sing. . . .John is locked in a basement stained with the blood of half a dozen murdered children, and an antique telephone, long since disconnected, rings at night with calls from the dead. . . .Nolan knows but can never tell what really happened in the summer of 77, when his idiot savant younger brother built a vast cardboard fort with secret doors leading into other worlds. . . .The past isnt dead. It isnt even past. . . .

Just finished Joe Hills 20th Century Ghosts. I only had one more story to go to finish it, so I dont know what was stopping me before. College started up about the time I began reading it, I guess, but now I have a lot of time to finish books each night I work. The last story I read was Voluntary Committal, and man was it powerful. The story of two brothers, extra dimensions, and guilt, mixed in with the emotions of wanting to friends and being willing to do almost anything to attain them. There was a sense of magic in the air, but a tainted magic that warned you from the start: Dont go in there. Magic exists. Monsters are real. My favorite stories are The Cape, Pop Art, and probably Voluntary Committal, but all of them are good. Joe switches up voices, perspectives, characters, and settings. You never know what to expect; you might have a clue, but you probably wont see the complete picture until all the pieces are in place. He is great about really diving into characters, making you care, and then ripping out your guts. Ive read other books by Joe Hill, like NOS4A2 and Heart Shaped Box, and he never disappoints. Give his work a chance. You will be glad you did.
